

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in two columns, one on the left page and one on the right page. The characters are densely packed and flow from right to left on each page. There are several instances of characters written in red ink, which may indicate specific characters or corrections. The paper is aged and shows signs of wear, including stains and irregular edges.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are highly stylized and fluid. A small portion of the text in the middle of the right page is written in red ink, possibly indicating a title or a specific section. The paper is aged and shows signs of wear, including discoloration and some staining.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. A prominent section of text in the middle columns is written in red ink, possibly indicating a title or a specific section. The script is dense and fluid, characteristic of traditional Chinese calligraphy.

Small handwritten characters or a mark on the left side of the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in approximately 18 vertical columns, reading from right to left. Several characters are highlighted in red ink, including the characters 天 (Heaven) and 地 (Earth) in the lower-middle section. The script is dense and fluid, characteristic of traditional Chinese calligraphy.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are highly stylized and fluid. There are several instances of characters written in red ink, which typically indicates emphasis or specific markers in a document. The paper is aged and shows some staining, particularly a large brownish spot in the upper right quadrant.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are highly stylized and fluid. A prominent feature is the use of red ink for certain characters, which likely indicates a specific emphasis or a section header. The paper is aged and shows signs of wear, including discoloration and some staining.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in a single horizontal line across the page. It consists of approximately 30 characters, many of which are highly stylized and difficult to decipher. Some characters are written in a reddish-brown ink, possibly indicating a title or a specific section. The overall appearance is that of a historical document or a piece of calligraphy.

是

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in a single horizontal line across the page. Several characters are written in red ink, serving as section markers or highlights. The script is dense and fluid, characteristic of traditional Chinese calligraphy.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of shorthand or a specific dialect. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are highly stylized and interconnected. A few characters are written in red ink, serving as markers or initials. The text is enclosed within a simple rectangular border.

Handwritten characters, possibly a page number or a section marker, located on the left side of the page.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in a single horizontal line across the page. The characters are highly stylized and connected. There are several characters written in red ink, which are likely used as section markers or to highlight specific parts of the text. The paper is aged and shows some discoloration and wear.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in approximately 15 vertical columns, reading from right to left. The characters are fluid and connected, characteristic of cursive script. There are several instances of red ink used for specific characters or groups of characters, possibly indicating emphasis or a specific section. The paper is aged and yellowed, with some staining and wear visible.

卷之六

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in a single horizontal line across the page. The characters are densely packed and highly stylized. A vertical line is visible on the left side of the page, and another on the right side, framing the text. The paper is aged and yellowed.

Handwritten text in a cursive script, likely a form of Chinese calligraphy. The text is arranged in a single line across the page. Several characters are written in red ink, serving as section markers or highlights. The script is dense and fluid, characteristic of traditional Chinese calligraphy.

Vertical text on the left margin, possibly a page number or a reference mark.

Handwritten text in a vertical column on the right side of the page.

Handwritten text in a vertical column, enclosed in a rectangular border. The text is written in a cursive style, with some characters in red ink.